

How does the meaning or message change with a different framing?

The same “moment” is captured here, but the meaning and message have changed completely.